High School Bonds, Incumbents Deserve Vote

On May 20 the voters of the Sequoia Union High School Dist. are called upon to decide two fundamental issues: (1) Shall a bond issue of $2,150,000 be voted for the building program offered by the board of trustees, and (2) shall the educational philosophy of the present board be continued by the reelection of two of its members?

We approach the problem of school house financing with some reluctance. There is a heavy tax burden involved—about $9 a year on the average home. This particular newspaper business pays taxes, and we have watched our tax bill double and double again.

Yet it isn't sufficient to say "no" to this bond issue. Some positive solution to the overcrowding situation must be found. We have studied the bond issue proposal and the building program which it will finance.

We come to this conclusion: Not only will Sequoia need every penny set up in this proposal, but within a few years it will need more as a tidal wave of enrollment threatens to engulf the school district. There is no time to be lost—enough has gone by the board already. The bond issue takes on the aspects of an emergency. To those who shun this decision we warn that delay will be expensive.

In 1946 we opposed a smaller bond issue. It was offered by a divided board on the basis that Sequoia was to be built to a 2500 capacity, while two pint-sized 300-student schools would be built in the north and south areas. The money allocated to the north and south areas was a patent political come-on for votes. We decried that kind of school district politics and found the majority of voters in agreement.

The defeat of the 1946 bond issue initiated a series of reforms at the school. A survey by Dr. John C. Almack of Stanford University revealed certain shortcomings.

Changes recommended by Dr. Almack have been brought about. With these changes came something of a revolt among liberals on the faculty. The issue is whether this uprising will succeed, or whether the people will again insist that the Almack reforms be enforced.

The fight against the Almack plan will be waged in the name of democracy in education. The fight for reelection of two incumbent trustees, Walter Hilton and Morton Brewer, will be based on the contention that education may be democratic but it must also educate.

We endorse the candidacies of Hilton and Brewer. We recommend the building program submitted by a united board of education.

That program calls for full-sized high schools in the north and the south, not at some unpredictable future date, but just as soon as they can be built.

The competition between the four candidates promises to be interesting. Fortunately all four men are of sufficient caliber to minimize personalities. All are to be commended for offering their services. The issue is more important than the persons and the voters will have opportunity for a clean-cut decision.

Apparently all four candidates favor the bond issue, but unless some leader emerges from the bullrushes to head up a campaign, the bonds will fall of their own weight and something of tragedy for the next few Sequoia generations will have been enacted.

RC Woman, 3 Others Hurt In County Auto Accidents

A 44-year-old Redwood City woman was hurt Tuesday morning when she fell from a car to Bayshore Hwy. near Hillsdale Ave., South San Mateo.

Mrs. Jean H. Billingsley, 231 Nevada St., suffered bruises and cuts about her face, and a head injury. She was being treated at Community Hospital.

The California Highway Patrol reported that her husband, Edwin E. Billingsley, 51, was driving north on Bayshore Hwy. when a car cut in front of his sedan. Billingsley swerved his car to avoid a collision, and Mrs. Billingsley fell against the door which opened.

Three other persons were hurt in traffic accidents over night, the CHP reported.

Myron E. Larson, 20, a creamery worker who lives at 649 Homer Ave., Palo Alto, suffered minor injuries when the car he was driving collided with a truck and trailer operated by Joseph S. Luiz, 28, of Mountain View. The collision occurred at 6:15 a.m. at Clarke and Garden Aves., East Palo Alto. Larson did not require hospital treatment.

Robert L. Urban, 23, of 160 Palo Alto Ave., Palo Alto, and Cpl. Edward Petack, 22, of the Half Moon Bay air force detachment, were treated at Community Hospital Monday after they were injured in a headon sideswipe collision on the Half Moon Bay Rd. three-quarters of a mile west of Skyline Blvd.

The CHP reported that Urban's eastbound car collided on a curve with a sedan operated by Cpl. Gerald W. Slemp, 31, also stationed at Half Moon Bay. Urban and Corporal Petack were treated at Community Hospital for cuts and bruises and were released.

RC Man Suicide In Los Angeles

A Redwood City man, Robert A. Aronson, 27, of 108 D St., was found dead in a Los Angeles Wilshire district dog and cat hospital Wednesday.

Detective Insp. John A. Fowler said Mr. Aronson's death was apparently a suicide caused by an overdose of sleeping tablets.

Officers found a note which read: "This is a try at euthanasia. Sorry it had to happen here."

A sister, Mrs. Louise Harrison of Menlo Park, said Mr. Aronson had gone to Los Angeles about three weeks ago. She said he was apparently in good health and could give no reason for his death.

Mrs. Harrison said she had not heard anything about her brother other than the fact that he was in Los Angeles. Mr. Aronson was not married.

Mr. Aronson is survived by two other sisters, Mrs. Leone Milan and Mrs. Irene Catra; his mother, Mrs. Aina Aronson, and two brothers, Roland and Raymond Aronson, all of Redwood City.

He served in the army in the European and Pacific theaters for more than four years in a medical detachment.

Funeral services are pending.

Judge Denies Insanity Plea In Theft Case

Three San Francisco men who held up the Silver Saddle on March 7 Wednesday were adjudged sane, after their conviction late Tuesday on robbery charge.

Superior Judge Edmund Scott is to pass sentence on the bandit trio on May 16.

Eugene Lagomarsino, 25, Garland Theus, 29, and James Williams, 26, were found guilty by Judge Scott after a one-day trial without jury.

The judge found the three men guilty despite claims of the defense that the trio had been led into a police trap by a police informant who had "hopped" them up with doses of liquor, phenobarbital and nembutal.

After hearing two psychiatrists testify that they believed each of the three bandits was sane at the time of the holdup and when they were examined, the judge ruled that the men also were sane and would have to face punishment.

When Reed Clark, attorney for the three men, charged that they should be found innocent because of police entrapment, Judge Scott declare:

"I can't agree with you. If there was entrapment, it didn't come from the police department."

When Clark persisted, saying that the police informant had notified Lt. Martin Lee of the San Francisco Police Dept. of the impending holdup, Judge Scott replied:

"If that constituted entrapment, every time a policeman got a tip he'd have to say 'I'm sorry but I can't do anything.'

"I don't think the evidence is sufficient to show that these men didn't know what they were doing."

The robbery occurred about 2 a.m. on March 7 in the bar, which is located at the intersection of Skyline Blvd. and Coast Hwy. near the San Francisco County line.

The three San Franciscans, accompanied by a fourth man who was identified at the trial as Ralph McGurn, also of San Francisco, robbed Daniel Preffer, the bartender, and three customers of $341.50. Two of the customers were beaten up by the holdup-men.

The trio was charged with four counts of robbery, one for the bartender and one for each of three customers held up. Judge Scott found all three guilty of robbing Preffer and one of the customers, Guillermo Magana of Colma, and not guilty of robbing Albert Adams of San Francisco, another customer who did not appear at the trial.

Lagomarsino and Theus in addition were found guilty of robbing Frank Ayala, another Colma ranch worker who was in the bar.

Lagomarsino, when he took the stand in his own behalf, claimed that prior to the robbery he had drunk a considerable amount of liquor, and that McGurn had given him nembutal and phenobarbital. The two other men

THIS GAVEL IS YOURS — That was, in effect, what Installing Officer Dr. Manfred Walzberg (right) is saying as he ushers in Lewis C. Reed as governor of Redwood City Lodge 1112, Loyal Order of the Moose, during ceremonies here recently. Reed succeeds W. O. Neikirk. Others installed were Bud Evans, junior governor; Carl J. Burlingame Boy Freed From Pipe

Timmy Miller, 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Miller of Burlingame was freed from a four-inch diameter drain pipe Wednesday one hour after his foot slipped into it, trapping him there up to his hip.

Timmy was playing hide and seek with his brother Jeff, 5, and another small boy when the accident happened.

Firemen and police freed the boy after digging a hole alongside the pipe, then severing the pipe and pushing the boy's foot and leg up from the bottom.

The pipe, uncovered, was in the rear of an apartment house near Timmy's home.

Come May 19 Henry Davis is going to prosecute Henry Davis.

One of the Henry Davises is deputy district attorney in San Mateo County. The other Henry Davis is Fred Malcolm.

Malcolm, a 47-year-old San Francisco carpenter, is in the jail in Redwood City on a bad check charge. According to Davis—the deputy DA—Malcolm has operated in the past with a score of aliases, including—Henry Davis.

Malcolm Monday afternoon reversed his guilty plea before Judge Edmund Scott, and the trial was set for May 19. He is accused of passing a $50 worthless check to Martin J. Reimer, San Bruno, on Dec. 15.

2 Charged With Attempt To Rob Sequoia Theater

The two young men who told a Sequoia Theater cashier to "hand it over" Saturday night have been charged with attempted robbery, Redwood City police said Wednesday. They will appear Friday before Police Judge W. H. Thorpe for a preliminary hearing.

The two are Robert Valdez, 20, 222 Hemlock St., unemployed; and John W. Musante, 21, 439 Quartz St., a grocery clerk.

Police said that Saturday they stopped a blue convertible in front of the theater and that one of them told Cashier Anita Graves, 855 Baron Ave., to hand over the money she had. She refused and eventually the pair left.

They were arrested Sunday and claimed then that their actions were a prank and not a real attempt at robbery.

VFW Vetoes Plan to Begin Vet Paper

Members of the Cpl. James Lindsay Wilson Post 2310 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Tuesday voted against a proposal to start a veteran's newspaper in Redwood City after representatives of the publication had previously asked the local post for support.

The VFW executive committee, after hearing a detailed outline regarding the proposed newspaper, unanimously voted the measure down when Col. Louis Weiss, committee chairman, said the committee "deplored the use of any publication or periodical using the name of a veteran's paper which would probably bother local merchants for advertising matter."

George Ipsen, district deputy chief of staff for the VFW declared the publication was legitimate and that other veterans organizations had approved the paper.

Two new members were accepted into the local chapter. Frank Di Grande and Earl D. Horwitz were installed.

Howard L. Sawyer, trustee, and Ed Dick, post adjutant, were given the officer's obligation by Joe Foulkes.

Post Cmdr. P. C. Kirk announced the appointment of Ed Rehback, sergeant major; Floyd Curtis, legislative service officer; Allen J. Claudini, officer of the day and Clifford De Les Dernier, chairman of the entertainment committee, to serve for the 1949-50 term.

R. E. Kreutzer was reappointed chairman of the public relations committee.

One automobile was overturned but no one was injured in a collision on El Camino Real in Menlo Park Monday afternoon.

Police reported cars driven by Mrs. Don A. Clements of 711 Middle Ave., Menlo Park, and Fred A. Johnson of Angwin collided at 4:45 p.m. at El Camino Real and Cambridge Ave.

Mrs. Clements was driving south on the highway and Johnson was attempting to make a left turn from the northbound lane when the accident occurred, police said.

Four Permits Issued For Public Cardrooms In San Mateo County

The first cardrooms in San Mateo County under the new licensing ordinance adopted two months ago were approved Tuesday by the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors. The board granted four permits, and continued three applications for further consideration until changes are made to comply with building and fire department rules.

Edward A. Covarrubias was granted a permit to operate five tables at the 101 Club, 5 MacDonald Ave., Bayshore City. Action on Covarrubias' application was continued two weeks ago because the report of the sheriff did not give specific approval. Tuesday the sheriff notified the supervisors that he approved the application.

The district attorney's office also reported that a sink, as required by the health department, had been installed.

Another five-table permit was granted this morning to Frank Mazzanti for the Club Cafe, 420-422 Main St., Half Moon Bay. Mazzanti stated that he intended to have three of the tables in the barroom and two in an alcove off the barroom. Both the sheriff and the district attorney recommended approval of the application.

The other permits granted this morning were for the operation of one table each. They were granted to Julio Ciardella, at the Pedro Smoke Shop, 7 San Pedro Rd., Colma, and to Bert Mazzocco, at Mazzocco's, 2808 Middlefield Rd., Redwood City.

The continuances were made in the case of three applicants each seeking a permit to operate one table. The applicants are Thomas Guzinsky, at the Visvalley Social Club, 107 Visitacion Ave., Brisbane; Marcello G. Vernengo, at Charlie's Smoke Shop, 508 El Camino Real, Lomita Park; and James F. White and Harvey E. Mabus, at the Willow Inn 710 Willow Rd., North Palo Alto.

The new ordinance allows a maximum of five card tables to be operated in any one cardroom in the unincorporated parts of the county. The cardrooms must be open to police and public inspection.

The license fees range up to $750 a year for five tables.

The board of superisors Tuesday also announced that the committee to investigate the chronic alcoholism situation in the county will be appointed at the next meeting of the supervisors. Chmn. Henry W. Edmonds said that the board wishes to ask each of the individuals who would be named to the committee if he would be willing to serve.

The request that such a fact-finding committee be appointed was made to the supervisors by San Mateo Judge Francis W. Murphy, who told the board that the present system of putting alcoholics into jail does not solve the problem.

Emerald Lake Burglar Wave Laid to Boys

Two 'teen-age boys were blamed Tuesday by Emerald Lake Police Chief Duncan FitzGerald for a pint-sized burglary wave which resulted in the looting of $500 worth of personal belongings from Emerald Lake homes.

FitzGerald Monday arrested the two boys, one of whom also is accused of firing a shot through a window last Thursday night, nearly hitting the residents.

The boys were turned over to juvenile authorities.

The arrest was made after the most recent of six burglaries in the area. FitzGerald said that the boys Sunday night broke into the home of William Kielty, 552 Summit Dr., and stole a purse containing $95. The boys were seen entering the driveway by Mr. and Mrs. Kielty, who were visiting neighbors across the street.

Other homes entered over a three-week period included the Wadum residence at 957 Hillcrest Dr., the Hausman home, 36 Circle Rd.; the Lenk home, 543 Hillsdale Dr.; the Bell home at 811 Vista Dr., and the McCausland home at 608 Vista Dr.

In the various houses the boys stole watches, keepsakes, a camera, a ring, a pearl necklace, a shotgun, radio. They even took marshmallows, flashlights, cigaret lighter and a Donald Duck wrist watch.

Some of the loot was thrown away by the boys, but they attempted to sell the camera. When the price offered was less than they thought they should get they claimed they threw it away.

FitzGerald said that Sunday night the boys went to downtown Redwood City, bought some red dye and as a prank threw it into the swimming pool at 231 Arlington Rd.

At least two attempted burglaries were committed by the two youths, FitzGerald claimed. One of them resulted in the shooting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Righini, 279 Lakeview Wy., Emerald Lake, last Thursday night.

FitzGerald said that the boys attempted to break into the house, not knowing it was occupied. When they couldn't open the windows one of them fired a .22 bullet through one of the windows to break the glass.

Argo Returns From Japan, Tells New School Plan There

By OTTO TALLENT

Occupation of Japan should continue until Japan is economically capable of carrying on successfully and until the country has firmly established a democratic form of government.

Such is the belief of A. C. Argo of Redwood City, former superintendent of Sequoia High School and for the past several months with the education division of the Civil Information and Education Section of General Headquarters of the Supreme Command of the Allied Powers in Tokyo.

Argo and Dr. Earl Peckham of San Carlos, former director of curriculum at Sequoia, were among 16 experts who flew to Japan last September to acquaint the Japanese with democratic practices and to help them work out educational programs for the various prefectures, which are equivalent to states here. Both Argo and Dr. Peckham returned to the United States recently by plane.

Argo said he has been asked to return to the work in Japan but declared he would not go unless he could take Mrs. Argo with him. Army regulations prevent wives from accompanying their husbands unless they stay more than one year at a time.

Argo had just moved into a new hilltop home on Cheshire Way overlooking the Bay Area before leaving for Japan last fall.

He said he has not decided on future plans. He has a leave of absence as a teacher at Sequoia. At the present time he is keeping up on correspondence with Japanese school administrators whom he counseled while in Japan and who are still seeking his advice. He has been invited to make several speeches here.

Argo brought back many souvenirs with him.

He interviewed the emperor during his stay. He said the emperor looked like a man who had been pushed around all his life. He saw Gen. Douglas MacArthur from a distance but was not personally in contact with him.

The education division held institutes in Tokyo for the educational leaders. Six hundred Japanese educational leaders from the various prefectures attended. The institute was divided into four groups: For professors of education in normal schools; administrators (superintendents); elementary school consultants, and secondary school consultants. Most of Argo's work was with the secondary schools.

One of the institute sessions lasted 12 weeks and one 11 weeks. The rest of the time Argo counseled in various parts of Japan.

Principal job of the American education experts was to acquaint the Japanese educators with democratic practices and to help them work out educational programs for the various prefectures.

Formerly the educators were dictated to by the ministry of education, and the ministry of education was dictated to by the militarists. They were told what to teach and how to teach. The job now is to reorganize the education system along democratic lines, an entirely new phase to the Japanese.

A. C. ARGO

"Much individualism is left to the prefectures," Argo said. "The task in reeducation is tremendous. The educators must be reeducated."

Argo stated the Japanese educators are enthusiastically accepting the democratic teachings.

Japanese children formerly had to go only through the sixth grade. Now it is compulsory that they continue through the ninth year.

Argo spent six weeks on conference trips to various parts of Japan. On one trip—to Kochi—his last trip during his stay in Japan, he traveled by train across mountains for 101 miles and went through 103 tunnels.

He had an interpreter all the time he was in Tokyo. On his trips an interpreter was provided.

Argo said there was no overt act by the Japanese while he was in Japan. He said he felt safe there.

Argo stated he formed the opinion that the occupation of Japan should continue after talking to many Japanese educational leaders from various parts of Japan, from talking to army officers, and from talking to civilian employes of the various sections of general headquarters in Tokyo.

"If the United States fails to help Japan recover economically," Argo declared, "chaos will take place and the country will be ripe for Communism or for some form of dictatorship. Bossism and Communism are the two great threats to Japan.

"If the United States fails to help Japan develop a democratic form of government, the same two great evils, bossism and Communism, are imminent.

"The task for the United States in Japan is a very important and challenging one. The Japanese apparently want the occupation and help furnished by the United States. From a humanitarian standpoint help must be given.

"The Japanese have greatly suffered under the yoke of militarists, and to destroy militarism, the economic level of the country has been greatly lowered by the destruction of her industry and much of her housing. From the standpoint of our own selfish interests, it is also important. It is on the front in stopping the development of Communism or some other form of dictatorship."

Argo said that because of the destruction of much of her industry by incendiary bombs and wiping out of the larger parts of many of her cities in the same manner, and because her sources of raw material have been cut off, the Japanese are short of food, shelter and clothing.

"One of the great responsibilities of the occupation forces is to help Japan solve her economic problem," he said. "There are two great handicaps to the economic recovery—great increase in population and bureaucracy. In a country slightly larger than California, there are 81 million people and the population is increasing at the rate of 1½ millions a year.

"The national and prefectural (state) departments could be organized more efficiently and many of the employes dismissed.

"The leadership of Japan appears convinced that the democratic form of government is fundamental. However, no democratic form of government can exist in name unless the citizens of the country are acquainted with democratic principles and ideals and with the rights and responsibilities that are theirs. Further than this there must be training by actual practice of democracy."

SEA STORIES

Citizens of Redwood City are lucky to have the opportunity for sailing close to their own back doors. Adventures on the Bay are to be had for the asking when you have a sailboat of your own anchored in our Yacht Harbor. This is the season to begin to enjoy sailing again. Many of us would rather take our adventures sitting in our patios and reading about the narrow escapes of others. In the Redwood City Public Library there are many opportunities for such adventures in books.

Among the newer books there is a collection of sea yarns called THEY TOOK TO THE SEA by David Klein. This gives personal accounts of Joshua Slocum, Jack London, Rockwell Kent and other small-boat owners.

One way to capture the mood of seafaring life can be found in Frank Shay's collection AMERICAN SEA SONGS AND CHANTEYS FROM THE DAYS OF IRON MEN AND WOOD SHIPS.

Six thousand years of history is given in Ramola and R. C. Anderson's book called THE SAILING SHIP.

Yacht owners and others will find many land lubbers will learn useful bits of information from the recent book by Ernest A. Ratsey, YACHT SAILS, THEIR CARE AND HANDLING.

The Redwood City Public Library is also a regular subscriber to the magazine YACHTING in which many useful and practical hints may be found for the yachtsman and for the would-be sailing fan.

When you feel you "must down to the seas again" as Poet John Masefield says, look for sea stories in the Redwood City Public Library. There are no better than Joseph Conrad's YOUTH AND TYPHOON to capture the feeling of the sea. Another favorite is C S. Forester and his series on Horatio Hornblower.

The following sea stories can also be recommended: DAWN SAILS NORTH by R. D. Frisbie, STORM AT SABLE ISLAND by Edmund Gilligan, WAKE OF THE RED WITCH by Garland Roark, and THE GOLDEN COAST by Philip Rooney. And there are many others.

PARENTS' CORNER: Hookey Season Is Here Again

BY DR. RICHMOND BARBOUR

"Spring days, spring days,
Joy-ful, stay-outta-school days."

So the parody goes. Rightly, for these are the "stay-outta-school-days."

Hookey season, full blast. Ever play hookey yourself? C'mon now, be honest. Did you?

I thought so. Get caught? Yep, me too. Sad hour of reckoning.

Driving near the beach the other day, I chanced to be following a police car. Three blocks ahead, five young gentlemen aged 10 were gamboling happily. They saw the prowl car. They disappeared. First you saw the five young gentlemen, then you didn't.

I tarried. Anyone who has ever been a truant officer will always stop when he sees such a demonstration of guilty conscience in 10-year-olds.

"What are you doing, boys?' I asked.

Five faces fell. Five victorious smiles were left hanging mid-air, just like the grin of the Cheshire cat. The same cat must have taken their tongues. They could swallow, but they couldn't speak.

"Hookey, again?" I asked, sounding very dignified and serious.

"No! No! No! No! No!" they finally responded, in much too vigorous a fashion.

"Then why the wet towels?" I asked. That stopped them. Each small boy had a wet towel wrapped around him. One was foolish enough to try to claim he had never seen his old towel before. But he did it half-heartedly, not expecting to be believed.

I asked their names, and got weird replies. One even said he was Richard Doe. Another apparently could think of only one name other than his own, the name of Jack Dempsey. He claimed that famous cognomen was his.

They gave the wrong addresses. They always do. And they claimed they attended a school on the far edge of town. That is standard too.

A few minutes on the phone straightened out the facts. Half an hour's driving was all it took to deliver them safely to the outraged bosoms of five very respectable families.

Then, of course, five young bottoms were spanked. Even as yours was, and mine.

And the five young gentlemen decided it wasn't worthwhile to play hookey. "Always some blankety-blank old hookey cop around to spoil the fun"

Next day? They were back in school.

SSF Council Approves City Manager

Sound overshadowed significance at this week's meeting of the South San Francisco city council.

Fifty noisy minutes were spent in a heated discussion between councilmen and members of an audience of 80 persons, who filled the chambers in the city hall to capacity, on the subject of the traffic hazard on El Camino Real at the entrance to Buri Buri.

And the 30 quiet seconds were spent in adopting an ordinance providing for a city manager for South San Francisco.

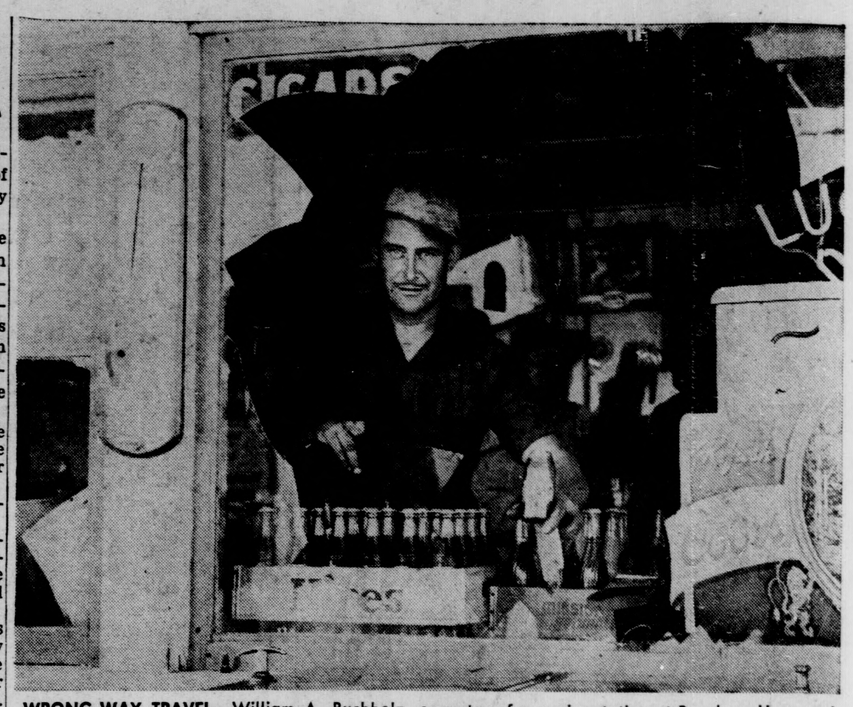
Vote for adoption of the ordinance was unanimous.

The manager will be appointed by the council and will handle the city's administrative affairs under the direction and control of the council.

Mayor Leo Ferko said this week the council is now ready to receive applications for the job, which will not come under the city civil service regulations.

No salary or job qualification standard has yet been set.

Ruffled tempers were the only result of the lengthy discussion on the Buri Buri traffic question.



WRONG-WAY TRAVEL—William A. Buchholz, operator of a service station at Bayshore Hwy. and Embarcadero Rd., Palo Alto, stands amid the debris of his front window shortly after a wheel from an auto involved in a collision which hospitalized two Stanford University crewmen crashed through it Wednesday. Buchholz was only a few feet from the window when the wheel came through it. The wheel smashed pop bottles stacked inside the station, jumped a counter and bounced off the wall. Jerry Mathis, who was driving the car carrying the crewmen, and McGregor Church, a passenger, were taken to Palo Alto Hospital with minor injuries. The other car involved in the collision was driven by Andrew N. Wiley, chief machinist at Moffett Field.

County Agriculture Hits Peak Production

San Mateo County's agricultural production in 1948 had a total value of $16,620,229, more than a half million dollars more than the year before, County Agricultural Cmsr. Max J. Leonard reported today.

The greatest increase was in the value of flowers, which last year crept into first place as the biggest single money-making division of the county's agricultural industry.

Leonard reported that the value of flower production was $5,995,586, due in part to higher prices and also because of increased acreage of field grown flowers, and more space in greenhouses.

The 1948 crop report does not reflect the effects of last winter's "big freeze," which did more damage than any previous cold weather in the county's history. However, Leonard pointed out that while the cold cut down production, the scarcity of agricultural products induced higher prices.

Next to flowers, products of bees and livestock stood second in the list, with production valued at $4,657,970. The other divisions were vegetables, $4,351,182, field crops $1,533,719, and fruit and nut crops $81,772.

Leonard said that last year's summary shows that prices generally were maintained at a satisfactory level to the growers, and that the crops have yielded well.

There was a heavy increase in the acreage sown to flax, due to high prices attributed mainly to a government subsidy.

While the value of the 1948 farm products was above that of 1947, it still ranked behind the first postwar year of 1946, when the farm products in the county were valued at $17,044,744. That year the bee and livestock products had the highest value, vegetables were next, and flowers ranked in third place. In 1947 the flowers edged out vegetables for second place.

The crop reports show that of San Mateo County's 286,080 acres, 34,330 were used for agricultural crops. Grazing land totaled 59,140 acres, 169,730 acres were brush and timber lands, and 22,880 acres are devoted to residential purposes.

Commercial flower crops are listed in the agricultural department's annual report in two categories: field grown and glasshouse grown.

The value of field grown crops totaled $3,415,997, with chrysanthemums, as usual, the biggest money maker, bringing in $1,396,072. Heather was second in the field grown class, with $456,000; and calla lilies third, with $390,000.

Among glasshouse grown flowers the greatest income was derived from gardenias, with $735,768; followed by ferns, $419,434; and roses, $342,748. The total value of glasshouse grown flowers was $2,579,589.

The artichoke crop increased during 1948 with a total production of 176,400 boxes bringing in $705,600. Although the production was about 20,000 crates under the 1947 yield, higher prices prevailed, for in 1947 the crop was valued at $593,100.

The acreage planted to brussels sprouts and cabbage dropped during 1948, with resulting decreases in the amounts of those crops grown, and in the money return. Cabbage had a value of $751,080, and sprouts of $740,740.

Among field crops flax was by far the biggest single crop, with a total value of $789,399. The 1948 figure shows a sharp increase over the two previous years, $593,426 in 1947, and $141,158 in 1946.

The growing popularity of this crop among farmers is shown in the amount of acreage planted to it during the past three years. In 1946 acreage devoted to flax totaled 3295; in 1947 it was 5861, and last year it had risen to 11,237.

Pears brought in the highest income among fruit and nut crops, with $31,500, followed by prunes with $12,980 and strawberries with $11,830.

The dairy industry led the bees and livestock classification with its products valued at $2,275,091, a decrease of about a half million dollars over the previous year. Hogs produced a total income of $1,522,062, with ducks running a weak third, having a value of $380,761. The county's 1755 colonies of bees produced a total income of $6055. The income of the livestock industry, Leonard stated, includes only the stock or products sold.

Board Sets May 10 For Housing Meet

A meeting for a round robin discussion of the Coyote Point Housing Project will be held at 10 a.m. May 10, the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors has announced.

The board is inviting representatives of the federal and state governments, the City of San Mateo, the San Mateo County Housing Authority, the tenants of the project and various technical and professional advisers.

Object of the meeting is to determine the future of the project, which is operated under federal contract. The board of supervisors was asked to close down the project after sewage had flooded some of the lower units.

However, Asst. Dist, Atty. Louis B. Dematteis told the board that the project could not be closed down this year unless the federal government so ordered.

Car Snaps Pole, Driver Injured

A Millbrae man was injured early Wednesday when his car ran into a power pole and snapped it off.

Philip L. Scherrer, 33, of 623 Laurel Ave., was in Junipero Serra Hospital, receiving treatment for a chest injury. His condition was listed as "good."

The California Highway Patrol reported that Scherrer apparently fell asleep at the wheel at 4:25 a.m. His car ran off El Camino Real south of San Pedro Rd., Colma, and struck the pole.

In an accident on the San Bruno Bayshore Freeway overpass Tuesday a load of junked car bodies was spilled from a flat rack truck, the CHP reported.

The truck, driven by Matthew L. Charles, 32, of 337 Victory Ave., South San Francisco, was turning to the approach to Bayshore Freeway when the left side of the rack broke, spilling three old car bodies and the top of a fourth onto the road. No one was injured.

Auto Overturns, Driver Uninjured

A 40-year-old Belmont glazier was uninjured early Wednesday after the car he was driving went out of control and rolled over after running off a 12-foot embankment.

Belmont police said that William B. Burke, 665 Middle Rd., driver of the car, reported that the vehicle went out of control at 2 a.m. on a curve on Notre Dame Ave., 300 yards north of Terrace Dr.

County Seeking Personnel Officer

A widespread campaign to recruit candidates for the post of San Mateo County personnel director was announced today by the civil service commission.

Written examinations for the post which was vacated a month ago by Russell J. Cooney will be held on June 4 in Redwood City, Los Angeles and in any other city where there are enough candidates. The examination is to cover all of the essential phases of a public personnel program, including position classification, salary determination and administration, employe relations and other phases of personnel administration.

Applicants who qualify in the written tests will be called to Redwood City for an interview at a date to be set later.

The position has a starting salary of $439 a month, and with annual increases on a merit basis until a maximum of $549 is reached. The commission has recommended to the board of supervisors that the salary range be boosted to $464-581, but no action has been taken by the board.

Qualifications required include graduation from college, and at least three years experience in specialized personnel administration.

Application forms can be obtained either from the civil service commission at the courthouse in Redwood City or from the Cooperative Personnel Services, California State Personnel Board, Sacramento. The applications must be filed by May 20, or must be postmarked before midnight May 19.

Planners Ask Change In Woodside Rd. Zone

The forming of a new zone along Woodside Rd. was proposed last week at a Redwood City Planning Commission meeting.

The zone would be for first commercial use for those merchants who would guarantee to install off-street parking lots along with their stores.

The matter came up when John McCarthy wrote that the commission was considering rezoning from residential to business some recently annexed land along Woodside near Union Ave. He pointed out that a similar request of his for a rezoning at Woodside and Hudson St. had been turned down and requested that the matter be reconsidered.

City councilmen have indicated that no matter what the commission recommends it will rezone the land at Woodside and Union.

After recalling the experience of large chain stores who have found that off-street parking greatly increases their business, Planning Consultant Lawrence Wise suggested the new zone. Commisisoners requested that he work out proposed changes to the zoning ordinance which would provide for the new zone. They noted that there is a lot of vacant land along Woodside Rd. which could be used for the parking lots.

Wise said that Sears Roebuck & Co. plans to install five square feet of parking space for each foot of store space in a store to be built at a David Bohannon Organization subdivision near San Mateo. He said that parking lots would cut the business of other chain stores both in Redwood City and San Mateo.

Board Asks Reimbursement For Supplying Judges to SF

The San Mateo County Board of Supervisors this week announced it wanted to know why the county should have to pay for San Francisco's courts.

The board instructed the clerk to write a letter to the California State Judicial Council, asking it if it would be possible to have San Francisco reimburse the county for what it costs to send judges to handle San Francisco benches.

Chmn. Henry W. Edmonds raised the money issue after the board received a letter from Hugh F. Mullin Jr., justice of the peace of the Second Township, notifying it that he had been assigned to the municipal bench in San Francisco for a month.

Judge Mullin stated that he has requested that Judge Edward J. Ryan of Menlo Park be assigned to the San Mateo justice court, and asked an appropriation of $225 from the unbudgeted reserve to make up the difference in salaries.

"I can see what's under way," Edmonds declared. He pointed out that Justice of the Peace John J. Fahey has been assigned to the San Francisco municipal court for the past two months, and the judicial council may send one of the county's JPs to Los Angeles.

"I see no reason why this county should pay out money for the courts of San Francisco," Edmonds declared.

Supervisor Martin A. Poss, who phrased the motion to send a letter to the judicial council, agreed with Edmonds.

"I think the other county should pay for the judges," he said.

SC Officials, Industrialists Discuss Area Improvements

San Carlos city officials, industrialists and property owners met last week at the plant of the Lenkurt Electric Co. in a discussion for proposed improvements in the industrial area.

The meeting, the first of a series of three, was sponsored by the San Carlos Chamber of Commerce.

Howard Brod, city manager, and Edward Smith, San Carlos city engineer, presented preliminary plans for street improvements, sewage disposal units and proposed locations for spur and drill railway tracks in the area.

Brod also submitted plans for the improvement of Commercial Rd., East of San Carlos Ave. and Branston Rd.

Atty. C. N. Kirkbride said he had made arrangements with the state regarding an outer road that would lie parallel to the existing Bayshore Hwy. San Carlos officials have been attempting to connect such a road with the existing strip in Burlingame.

Brod said that plans also call for the improvement of the Old County Rd. and that work on this project would be started "in about three months."

The city manager discussed proposed crossing improvements at Commercial Rd. and Washington St. However, at the request of the industrial commitee of the chamber of commerce it was decided to investigate the cost of a six-way traffic light system at the Brittan Ave. crossing.
